Hillary Hudson Bryce focuses her practice on criminal defense. After serving the people of Ocean County as chief assistant prosecutor for twenty-five years, she now devotes her time and impressive courtroom skills to defending clients in myriad criminal matters, including motor vehicle violations, disorderly persons offenses, and felonies. Hillary understands every case has its own story and problems to solve. She applies a balanced perspective and analytical approach to helping clients achieve the best outcomes.

During her tenure at the Ocean County Prosecutor's Office, Hillary served in the Juvenile, Grand Jury, Trial Team, Domestic Violence, and High-Tech Crime Units. Tapped as a seasoned public prosecutor, she shared her legal insights in various criminal documentaries.

Licensed in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, Hillary is also a certified criminal trial attorney and is actively involved with the Ocean County Bar Association. She earned her law degree and Bachelor of Arts from Rutgers University.
